STAFFELBACH CELEBRATES 50 YEARS OF EXCELLENCE IN DESIGN

What Shapes Design for the Golden Age Firm

Dallas, TX, January 17, 2017—Andre Staffelbach, Swiss-trained and educated Architect and Designer, who with his team revolutionized Dallas Corporate Interiors with his planning and design skills, is celebrating the firm’s Golden Anniversary.

To celebrate their 50th Anniversary, Staffelbach teamed with a New York-based publishing group to develop a monograph illustrating some of the firm’s work and exhibiting their collaborative efforts.

The subtitle, “What Shapes Design” is based on six visionary themes: Inspiration, Impressions, Innovation, Process, Craftsmanship and Experience, and the belief that the team’s work with clients, professionals, craftsmen and artists is a requirement for any successful project.

Known for his keen detail-oriented and determined nature, Staffelbach is referenced as “inimitable” in D CEO’s Dallas 500 publication. As the Creative Principal, he works together with Jo Heinz, President and CEO of the firm and seasoned team on national and international projects. Remarkably high standards are achieved under the relentlessly demanding personalities of both Staffelbach and Heinz. As Fellows of IIDA and the recipients of many national awards and recognitions—to include Andre’s induction into the International Interior Design Hall of Fame—their distinctions speak for themselves.

While many of the projects in the book seem of the time, most individuals do not know that the Staffelbach team designed them years ahead of what may have become the design of the time. To say that this is unique in today’s world is no overstatement. The monograph exhibits that the 80-strong team, combined with their favorite craftsmen, can achieve and meet any client’s most demanding requirements.
